WORLD WAR HAS ENDED

PARIS, Nov. 11 ---[Associated Press]---The armistice between Germany and the Entente nations and the United States has been signed. Captain Helldorf, courier from the German peace emissaries at Foch's headquarters on the Aisne, has returned from his mission to Spa, Belgium. Following his return official announcement was made that the armistice, which is effective at 6 o'clock this morning Washington time, has been signed.

Essen In Hands of Revolutionists

London, Nov. 10, Essen, the city in which the great Krupp steel plant is located, is reported to be in the hands of the revolutionists.

Lieut. Krupp von Behlen under Halach, head of the Krupp works, and his wife, who inherited the vast property, are under arrest.

Allied Terms To Be Most Stringent

London, Nov. 10---The terms of the armistice offered Germany, according to the Daily Express, are more stringent than those which were forecasted October 31.

Germany will be absolutely deprived of military power, the newspaper adds, and from further military action by land, sea or air.

Washington, Nov. 10---William Hohenzollern has arrived in Holland and is proceeding to the town of Deslert, near Utrecht according to a Hague dispatch.

WAR HAS NOT CALLOUSED
FINE SENSIBILITIES OF THE
UNITED STATES SURGEONS

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY IN THE FIELD, Nov. 10, (Special to the Associated Press.) The fine sensibilities of the American medical men, who have been in the front lines of the war, are not calloused, according to a dispatch from the American Medical Association.

In a three-day trip through the 90,000 square miles of the front, the American medical men have seen the most terrible sights of the war, but they have not lost their fine sensibilities.

Thousands of American soldiers, who have been in the front lines of the war, are now in the hospitals, and the American medical men are working to bring them back to the front lines.

WILSON'S POLICIES PREVAIL

WOODROW WILSON.

President Wilson, through his masterful interpretation of the spirit of oppressed nations, brought the War to its inevitable conclusion. The collapse of Austria assured the surrender of Germany, and it was President Wilson who insisted upon Marshal Foch as the supreme military head of the armies of the Allies. Since Foch accepted the leadership, the war has been prosecuted with relentless energy throughout the zone of strife.

RED FLAG NOW FLYING FROM GERMAN WARSHIPS

Crews of Six Battleships However Remain Loyal and Direct Their Guns Against Revolutionists

ASSOCIATED PRESS. COPENHAGEN, Nov. 10.---Six German battleships anchored outside of Flensburg have directed their guns against the revolutionists, a dispatch is reported.

The battleship Keiser, which refused to surrender, was taken after a hard fight. Revolutionists have captured in Flensburg, Cologne, and Mannheim, according to official Berlin announcements. The three cities, however, are not wholly in the hands of revolutionists. It is also reported that the entire garrison of Flensburg has resisted.

With the passing of power from the Kaiser all heads of the Central Powers when they entered the war with their hands on their heads, figuratively speaking.

The red flag is waving over a continuously increasing area of Germany, having spread from the northwest along the North Sea to Schleswig Holstein, southwestward into Westphalia and Cologne on the Rhine.
